

The UKCPA forums are a fantastic way to learn and share expertise with other like-minded clinical pharmacy professionals. It's a great support network, an information hub, and a place to meet others.

- All the forums are categorised by topics. Please try to post your questions or messages in the most appropriate forum. Messages posted in the wrong topic area and duplicated messages may be moved or removed.
- Try searching the forum before you create a thread. Your question may have already been asked and answered.
- If you are posting a question, try to ensure that you are clear about the information you require, and that you include enough detail for other members to help you.
- If someone gives you advice, please thank them. It can be demoralising to provide an answer to a question but hear no response.
- If you take someone's advice or if you come to a solution on your own, please post an update. Someone else may benefit.
- The forums are also useful for sharing best practice and useful information. We encourage members to share documents and upload them to the pinned 'share documents here' file at the top of each forum.
- Please try to respond to questions as well as post them. You don't have to be an expert to engage in the conversation; it's always encouraging to hear others describe their experiences, even if they don't have the answer.
- We encourage our members to keep all advice, discussions and sharing of documents within the forums. This not only helps others who may have the same question, but we are unable to support and moderate information being provided or requested via personal message or email.
- We expect all our members to remain professional and respectful of other members at all times.
- Please avoid the advertising or promotion of non-UKCPA events or irrelevant information. If you wish to promote a non-UKCPA event, please contact the UKCPA office who will be able to facilitate it being added to our External Events webpage. An external event is any event not included in the UKCPA event calendar here:
<https://ukclinicalpharmacy.org/education/events/>
- Please don't post copyright-infringing material.
- Please don't post offensive posts, links or images.
- Please try to ask your question in the most appropriate forum. Cross posting means that many members will receive duplicate notices in their inbox of your one message.

Terms and conditions

When posting in the UKCPA forums, you agree that the administrators and the moderators have the right to modify, delete, edit or close any post, signature, account, or profile data at any time that they see fit. If you have any questions concerning this, please email Marie Matthews, UKCPA Director of Operations: marie.matthews@ukcpa.com.

All advice from UKCPA members is to be used at your own risk and together with your own professional judgment. By using any of the advice or information provided within the forums, you give up the right to hold UK Clinical Pharmacy Association Limited liable for any damages.

We request your vigilance to keep patients and our members safe. If you read something that is incorrect and could cause harm, or if a post needs moderator attention, please report it immediately to Marie Matthews marie.matthews@ukcpa.com.